Business Banking – delivering exceptional client service

Research commissioned by Rabobank and administered by TNS Research revealed that Business Banking's client advocacy and satisfaction are at market leading levels. In all, 100 Rabobank clients were interviewed for the study, with New Zealand results benchmarked against market data derived from the TNS Conversa Business Finance Monitor¹.

Analysis focussing on individual performance attributes showed that Business Banking performed most strongly on the performance attributes found to be important to its clients, particularly: Understanding your business, knowledge and expertise of the bank's representatives and access to relationship manager.

According to Dean Clark, general manager Business Banking, it is the deep relationship model used by Rabobank that ensures each client is matched to a relationship manager with the right experience to help grow their business. This, combined with specialist bankers supported by Rabobank's global team of food and agribusiness analysts, ensure the highest level of service.

"This is a great achievement for the New Zealand Business Banking team. When we set up the business in 2001 it was our ambition to deliver a service model based on superior knowledge and expertise. We wanted our clients to be loyal and active champions of the Rabobank brand and I am very proud that the business has achieved this so emphatically", Dean concluded.

The TNS survey results reinforce Rabobank's ongoing commitment to the food and agribusiness sector in New Zealand with an aim to continue this exceptional level of service into the near future and beyond.
