

Job Candidate Privacy Statement

From the world's leading food and agribusiness bank

Introduction

As a potential job candidate, you must be secure in the knowledge that we do everything we can to protect your Personal Information. We comply with all the relevant laws and regulations, including but not limited to, the Privacy Act 2020. This Privacy Statement is for the Hiring and Selection process and explains how your Personal Information is processed when applying for a job at Rabobank.

When we use the terms Rabobank, we, our, us; for the purposes of the Hiring and Selection process, it means each member of the Rabobank Group based in New Zealand, being:

- Coöperatieve Rabobank U.A. (New Zealand Branch) (NZBN 9429038354397)
- Rabobank New Zealand Limited (NZBN 9429040969855)

What do we mean exactly by 'Personal Information' and processing Personal Information?

- Personal Information means any information that relates to an identified person or an individual who can be reasonably identified. This includes an opinion, whether the information or opinion is true or not; or recorded in a material form or not. In the context of a job candidate this may include:
 - Your name, address, date of birth, gender, telephone number and email address;
 - Your Curriculum Vitae (CV) and cover letter; and
 - Links to your public profiles on websites such as LinkedIn.
- Processing of Personal Information means any operation that is performed on Personal Information. This includes the collection, recording, storage, organisation, alteration, use, transfer, disclosure (including the granting of remote access), transmission or deleting of Personal Information. When you apply for a job with us, we collect, use and retain your Personal Information. We do this, among other things, to verify that you hold the appropriate qualifications and are suitable for the position.

Do we process your Personal Information during the job application process?

This Privacy Statement applies to the processing of Personal Information of all candidates and potential candidates as part of the Hiring and Selection process at Rabobank. The Personal Information is processed in our HR systems (Workday and Harver) in New Zealand by Rabobank. If your application for employment with Rabobank is successful, your Personal Information, including all application and assessment documents collected during the application process, will form part of your employee record with us.

How do we obtain your Personal Information?

We have two ways of collecting your Personal Information:

- You provide this yourself, or through a third party/third parties (for example, referees or an external recruitment agency).
- We also collect information (including contact details) ourselves through resources such as CV databases. We do this if we think you might be interested in working for us. If the recruiter contacts you, they will tell you where they found your details. In addition, they will ask you for permission to use these details to contact you regarding a Rabobank job opening or event in the future. You can change or withdraw your consent at any time using the contact details in this Statement.

Principles and purposes of processing Personal Information relating to a job application

We process your Personal Information:

- In order to enter into an employment contract with you and perform the activities governed by this employment contract;
- Based on your express consent – which, of course, can be withdrawn at any time;
- If we have a legal obligation to do so; or
- Based on our legitimate interests.

For what purposes do we process Personal Information?

We process Personal Information for the following purposes:

a. Human resources

We require your Personal Information in order to be able to properly conduct our Hiring and Selection process. This includes assessing whether you are suitable for the position and if we would like to invite you for an interview. Another reason might be to produce a temporary access card, which you may require in order to enter the building. Rabobank has an Inclusion and Belonging Policy because we want our employees to reflect our wider society and this is reflected in our Hiring and Selection practices.

b. Health, safety, security and ethics (including pre-employment screening)

Like other financial institutions in New Zealand, we require future employees to undergo background checks. Our screening procedures apply to all candidates who are potential Rabobank employees. A positive outcome of the background check is a condition for getting hired and to confirm you are of good and honest character. All candidates to be screened are subject to the same procedure, which consists of the following two stages:

- Stage 1: If we intend to enter into an employment contract with you, we will ask you to complete a self-declaration form; this form advises you that we will be gathering Personal Information on you. This may also include the opinions of employers or clients you have previously worked with regarding your experience and character.
- Stage 2: We will initiate our pre-employment screening with a third party provider to complete this screening process. They will also ask for your consent as part of this process.

We may also use Personal Information we obtain from other third parties for this purpose, including former employers (through references we received from you) and recruitment agencies. We may also consult public sources during the job application process, including publicly accessible and professional social media (if this is relevant to the position and is specified in the job advert).

We also record Personal Information in order to protect the interests of our employees, visitors, the bank and the financial sector. We do this, among other things, through the camera security and visitor registration systems, when you attend our premises at any stage during the Hiring and Selection process.

c. Business reports and analysis and organisational development

We may process your Personal Information to create business reports, surveys and analyses. We may also merge the various information we possess to improve the Hiring and Selection reports (for example, the number of job openings, number of candidates and the time it takes to fill these vacancies). The results of the analyses and the resulting recommendations are de-identified and unable to be traced back to you.

d. Legal requirements

We are required to collect Personal Information relating to you by specific domestic and international laws and regulations, and our internal policies. Examples of this are being required to verify your identity, asking for evidence of your right to working in New Zealand, or establishing the suitability of a preferred candidate for a Bank Director or Senior Manager role as required by our regulators.

e. Protection of job candidates' vital interests

We may process Personal Information in order to protect your vital interests, e.g. your medical details. Such as if you are in acute danger (and have lost consciousness) and are no longer able to give consent for your medical details to be shared. In this case, these details are vital in order to be able to provide you with immediate assistance.

Do we also process Sensitive Personal Information as part of the Hiring and Selection process?

By 'Sensitive Personal Information', we mean information that may relate to a person's health, criminal record, and information regarding race or ethnic background. We conduct background checks as part of the process, and may process information relating to criminal records for this purpose. The purpose is to protect the interests of financial institutions, of you as a job candidate, and of our clients. One of the ways in which we do this is through fraud detection. If you ask us to record Sensitive Personal Information relating to you or are disclosing this information yourself, we will only process this information if there is a clear and lawful purpose, if there are grounds to do so, and if this is necessary for the purpose. Sensitive Personal Information may also be processed, for example in photographs or video recordings of you. This includes any pictures you might have enclosed with your CV, recordings of video interviews (with your consent), as well as camera footage recorded of you on entering the building. We process this camera footage solely for the protection of our property and our employees, and for other security reasons.

How do we handle your Personal Information?

Your Personal Information is used exclusively by employees who require access to this information due to their position. The employees who are involved in your application process are bound by a duty of confidentiality. We only reuse information if the original purpose is directly related to the new purpose. For example, you apply for a position and that particular position doesn't suit you, but we think you are suitable for another/similar position. Once we have obtained your permission, we will include you in the process for the other/similar position.

How do we deal with third parties?

Sometimes we engage the services of third parties, which process Personal Information on our behalf. This includes external recruitment agencies and research companies. We can only engage third parties if this suits the purpose for which we processed your Personal Information and this is sufficiently reliable. Furthermore, we will only hire the services of such a third party or parties if they have implemented the appropriate security measures and guarantee confidentiality through contractual arrangements.

Your Personal Information may also be shared with related entities of Rabobank, which includes entities within New Zealand and overseas (including but not limited to the Netherlands, Australia, United Kingdom, and the U.S.), and may be stored on overseas databases operated by Rabobank Group or its related entities.

How long do we keep your details?

If you created an online profile with us, you will be able to use it again for other job applications at Rabobank in the future.

If your job application was unsuccessful, we will delete your Personal Information within 4 weeks after the position has been filled. This includes all application details uploaded into Workday, e.g. your job application letter, CV, and the results of background checks and/or assessments. If we do need to retain your Personal Information for a longer period of time, e.g. for future job vacancies, we will ask for your consent at the time when you submit your application in our careers portal. You can withdraw your consent at any time via email to fm.nz.humanresources@rabobank.com.

What rights do you have in relation to your Personal Information?

Right of access

You may ask us to view the Personal Information we have stored in relation to you, including your public online details and your uploaded CV and cover letter.

Right of correction

If your Personal Information is incorrect, incomplete or in violation of the law, you can request us to have it corrected.

Right to deletion

You can ask that Personal Information recorded in relation to you be deleted if you object to this information being processed. This might be the case, for example, if the processing is unlawful or no longer necessary for the purposes for which it was collected.

Right to restrict processing

In some cases, you may request that the processing of your Personal Information be restricted. This means that a smaller amount of information is processed (this is the case, for example, when your CV is updated).

Right not to be subject to automated decision-making

'Automated decision-making' refers to decisions made by computers rather than people. Rabobank is permitted under the law to make automated decisions, including profiling. We currently do not use automated decision-making in the job application process.

Right to object

You have the option to object to the processing of your Personal Information. In this case, we will make a re-assessment in order to verify that it is accurate that your information can no longer be used for this purpose. We will also always inform you of our decision. If the decision is unacceptable to you, you can submit a complaint via our contact options below.

How long we will take to respond to your rights request?

If you submitted one of the requests described above, we will respond to your request within 20 working days of receipt. Depending on the number of requests received and the complexity of the request(s), the period may be extended but will not exceed two months in total from receipt. We will keep you updated on the progress of your request. You may be asked to provide more details about your request. We may also ask you to provide proof of identity because we want to make certain that we are providing information to the right person. In some cases we may not be able to honour your request. For example, we will not delete the information if there is a legal obligation to retain it. We will notify you if this is the case.

Where can you submit a rights request or have your question or complaint addressed?

If you have a rights request or have questions/complaints/feedback about the processing of Personal Information during the Hiring and Selection process, you can contact the Human Resources team, who can be reached via email to fm.nz.humanresources@rabobank.com.
